Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Let the island breezes of Realla (pronounced Ree all ya!) settle you into front row seats among the butterflies, mongooses and Metronoma city workers, as they enjoy the musical stylings of the Notable Characters. These five kids make it a routine to play music in Poplar Park every midday break from school, but they are confronted with a misguided, sometimes mean-spirited group of sisters and their little brother Un Rest, who feel slighted by the Notables because of all the attention they are getting with their songs. To listen to the Notable Character s theme song, We Had Our Nap We Had Our Meal And Now We Feel Okay as written and performed by the author follow this link: // The story unfolds with some musical terms woven in, such as: melody, chords, scat, percussion, downbeat, and bass clef. Genres are referenced to help define the interests of the characters: bossa nova, African pop, jazz, rap, zydeco, reggae, opera, blues, ska, and calypso. Characters in the story are learning to become experts on various instruments, like the piano, guitar, harp, double bass, and drums. The world they inhabit puts music education and practice in greater focus. This story is also an imaginative way to show the role of empathy in resolving conflicts among diverse groups, while at the same time, expanding a child s music vocabulary and understanding of musical performance. This colorful book is highly recommended for young music learners everywhere. Learn more at.
